

Stanford Contingent Workforce Program

Managed by Manpower

October 13 Newsletter

The 49ers are hot!

Have you submitted your data for the InSite ordering tool through the Stanford Contingent Workforce Program (SCWP)? As part of our “welcome to the program,” every hiring manager’s info submitted by October 17 will be eligible for a drawing for three 49er tickets to the Sunday, October 26 game versus Seattle at 1:15 p.m. Great seats and a whole lot of fun!.

Question of the Week

Q: There has been a lot of confusion about the relationship of the Stanford Contingent Workforce Program and Stanford Temps. Can you please clarify?

A: We are very excited to announce the integration of Stanford Temps as a preferred vendor into the Stanford Contingent Workforce Program (managed by Manpower). Although it has always been our intent to have Stanford Temps become part of the program, practical and business process related challenges delayed them from coming on board. We are happy to report that the Stanford Temps integration timetable now coincides with the November 10 go-live date of InSite, our new vendor management software.

Providing Stanford-ready clerical and administrative employees is clearly an important asset that Stanford Temps brings to the table. As a hiring manager, you will be able to identify Stanford Temps as your preferred vendor. More importantly, you will also be able to access reports and metrics that include ALL of your agency provided temporary staff.

Learn and Earn...Webinars!

For five years now, Manpower has been hosting complimentary HR Webinars for our customers, with over 10,500 individuals registering for Webinars in 2007. The Webinar Series has pre-approved status for issuing continuing education credits through the Human Resource Certification Institute, an affiliate of SHRM. For professional HR members, Manpower Webinars count toward recertification. To register and view a list of monthly topics and speakers, visit: <http://www.us.manpower.com/webinars>.

SCWP Timeline....

Training is on the Horizon.

You may now sign up for training sessions on the InSite ordering tool. There will be three types of training available. You can sign up for classroom training, virtual training or after November 1, you can go to the SCWP website and link to a power point tutorial. Please contact Jerry Pang at jpang@manpowersj.com to let him know which session you would like to attend. For the virtual sessions, we will send you a link prior to the session. We will be distributing manager guides and quick reference guides. You will also be able to download these resources from the website.
